Katie's Answer.

Och, Katie's a rogue, it is true, But her eyes, like the sky, are so blue, An' her dimples so swate, An' her ankles so nate, She dazed an' she bothered me, too-

Till one mornin' we wint for a ride, Within, demure as a bride, by my side,

The darlint, she sat, Wid the wickedest hat, 'Neath purty girl's chin iver tied. An' my heart, arrah, thin how'it bate!

For my Kate looked so temptin' an' swate, Wid cheeks like the roses An' all the red posies That grow in her garden so nate.

Till she said wid a toss of her head, "If I'd know that to-day Ye'd have nothing to say, I'd have gone with my cousin instead."

But I sat just as mute as the dead,

For I knew she'd not scold if I towld Uv the love in my heart That would never depart Though I lived to be wrinkled and ould.

An' I said: "If I dared to do so, I'd lit go uv the baste an' I'd throw Both arms around your waist

An' be stealin' altaste Uv them lips that are coaxin' me so." Then she blushed a more illegent red. As she said without raising her head, An' her eyes lookin' down

'Neath her lashes so brown, "Would ve like me to drive, Misther Ted?"

In other words, that if an official be republican in his political convictions, he is necessarily disconst and inefficient, and if a demodishonest and inefficient, and if a democrat, he is necessarily honest and all right. In order to bring about this result, and heal the breach between the president and his party, each of the cabinet officers has requested the heads of bureaus in their respective depart-ments to furnish him with a list of clerks that can be dispensed with, or whose places can be filled by civil service appointments with advantage to the government. These lists will be furnished before the 1st of July. The information asked for does not entirely relate to the clerical fitness of clerks, but includes what may be known in regard to offensive partisanship, offen-sive habits and manners, bad repute in the community, etc. This information comes from a democratic source, and is therefore reliable.
